AURA | Where daylight becomes design

AURA was born from observing how natural light moves across architecture throughout the day—bringing that rhythm indoors through design.

For Italian designer Giovanni Filardi, raised in Foggia and now based in Turin, inspiration begins with light itself. In AURA, he translates these impressions into form and material, distilling them into a timeless, balanced presence.

Each element has been reduced to its purest function, with details designed to support longevity and ease of service—reflecting a circular approach to design.

AURA pairs the soft, atmospheric character of alabaster with an elegant metal framework, available in curated finishes, to create a warm, refined glow that complements both contemporary and classic interiors.

More than a decorative object, AURA is a quiet presence—shaping atmosphere through craftsmanship, emotion, and precision.
