For Italian designer Giovanni Filardi—raised in Foggia and now based in Turin—inspiration begins with light itself. From the intense southern sun to the softer northern glow, he learned how light shapes emotion, proportion, and atmosphere. With AURA, he translates these impressions into form and material, distilling light into a timeless, balanced presence.

Aura Col is inspired by the classical form of a Roman column. Its lamp head is crafted from machined alabaster, allowing light to diffuse softly through the natural stone—echoing the way natural light moves across a column throughout the day.

Aura Col is available in table, floor, pendant, and wall versions.
